HAWAII COMPANY, EMPOWERED INTERNET SOLUTIONS, LAUNCHES SYSTEM PROMISING TO REVOLUTIONIZE THE DEVELOPMENT OF WEBSITES

Honolulu, HI (November 9, 2005) – Empowered Internet Solutions, LLC (EIS), a locally owned and operated internet solutions company specializing in website development, has launched its new product WebOS, a web management software program.

WebOS promises to revolutionize the way websites are built and maintained. WebOS is a hybrid content management system with full-site management capabilities and a library of extended functionality. WebOS allows websites to be updated directly from the Internet by personnel with little or no technical background.

“This product represents a fundamental change in Web development,” says EIS CEO Rob Bertholf. “WebOS has the ability to unlock the potential of the web. We believe WebOS will be the new standard in website management.”

WebOS is an easy-to-use software package, facilitating the ability to transfer existing websites, rapidly launch new websites and create or re-design multimedia-enabled websites.

“Typically, for a site to be updated, all the changes must be made on a hard copy of the site stored on a computer and then loaded onto a server,” adds Bertholf. “WebOS allows all those changes to be made directly to the website, from the website.”

In a matter of days, EIS can convert an existing website to the WebOS platform. If you don’t yet have a website, the EIS can create and deliver a powerful, effective and aesthetically pleasing website through its professional services. Partnering with local designers, EIS pairs clients with graphic artists who are best suited to each industry.

With WebOS, EIS can deliver a new website within a week, compared to more than a month that most website developers take. The starting price of $1499 will transfer your existing site to the WebOS management system. For $1000 more, customers receive a complete website makeover or a brand new site design. The highest-priced package offers multimedia-enabled website creation for $3499.
